MCC's Rs. 6.11 cr. surplus budget

M.S. Shobha, Chairperson, MCC Standing Committee on Finance and Tax Appeals, presenting the budget at MCC in city this morning.

Mysuru, Apr. 28 (RK&BCT)- Chairperson of Standing Committee on Taxation, Finance and Appeals, M.S. Shobha created a history of sorts today by becoming the first person in the history of Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) to present the budget for the second time in a row.

She tabled a Rs. 6.11 crore surplus budget at Nalwadi Krishnaraja Hall this morning in the presence of Mayor (in-Charge) Sunanda Palanetra, Deputy Mayor (in-Charge) Anwar Baig and MCC Commissioner G. Lakshmikantha Reddy.

The annual budget is presented by the Chairperson of the Standing Committee on Taxation, Finance and Appeals every year after the Mayoral polls and after the reconstitution of all the four Standing Committees.

This year, however, the Mayoral term ended on Feb. 24 and as the State Government is yet to announce the reservation matrix, the elections are delayed. Non-presentation of budget would have led to delayed payment of salaries and other expenditure and also would have put a spanner in development works. In this scenario, the Urban Development Department permitted the Chairperson of the Standing Committee on Taxation, Finance and Appeals to present the budget.

Miyawaki Park

The MCC has taken certain eco-friendly initiatives and Miyawaki Park is one among them. The Miyawaki method would be adopted in all the parks within the MCC jurisdiction where native saplings will be planted.

Miyawaki method involves planting two to four trees per square metre. They help lower temperatures, reduce air and noise pollution and attract local birds and insects. The MCC has reserved Rs. 3 crore for this.

Electrical auto tippers

To curb pollution, MCC plans to start electrical auto tippers to collect and transport e-waste from door-to-door and initially five vehicles will be purchased.

Another major announcement is the construction of MCC Bhavan that will save money as at present, all MCC events are held at rented halls. MCC Bhavan will have hi-tech features and Rs. 5 crore has been set aside.

Keeping in mind the bad condition of roads, a new pothole-filling machine will be bought for immediate repairs. Rs. 5 crore has been earmarked for this.

(See BUDGET on page 6)

New Projects

- Miyawaki Park
- International skating rink
- Yoga Mantap
- MCC Bhavan
- Pothole-filling machine
- Electric vehicles
- Sports arena
- Petrol pumps

EU countries want to stop lawsuits against journalists

Brussels (Belgium), Apr. 28- The European Union's executive arm yesterday said that it wants to see the EU adopt a law to protect journalists and civil rights activists from lawsuits aimed at censoring them.

The proposed law would allow courts to dismiss cases early in the proceedings and puts the burden of proof on the parties bringing lawsuits "to prove that the case is not manifestly unfounded," the European Commission said.

The Commission proposed safeguards to curb SLAPPS, or strategic lawsuits against public participation. It described such litigation as a "serious threat to democracy and fundamental rights, such as freedom of expression and information."

Daphne Caruana Galizia, a Maltese investigative journalist who was killed in a 2017 car bombing, faced more than 40 lawsuits when she was killed, the Commission said.

The European Union (EU) is a political and economic union of 27 European countries. EU policies aim to ensure the free movement of people, goods, services and capital within the internal market; enact legislation in justice and home affairs; and maintain common policies on trade, agriculture, fisheries and regional development.

City newspaper distributor's daughter excels in MBBS

Mysuru, Apr. 28 (SSM)- "Dream is not what you see in sleep, dream is something which doesn't let you sleep," said Dr. A.P.J Abdul Kalam. Self-belief and hard work will earn success.

N. Suma Bharathi

Here is the success story of the daughter of a newspaper distributor, who not only dreamt of becoming a doctor, but also pursued it with dedication.

She is N. Suma Bharathi, daughter of senior newspaper distributor M. Nagaraj and Nagalambika couple of city. Nagaraj has been distributing newspapers in city for the past 35 years.

Bharathi, a bright student, did her schooling in B.T.L. Vidya Vahini School in city and completed her PUC from Marimallapa College. Though she dreamt of being a scientist in her childhood, she later decided to be a doctor and serve the society.

She not only excelled in NEET exams without special coaching, but also obtained a Government seat in Adichunchanagiri Institute of Medical Sciences, Bellur, Mandya. Setting aside the common perception that only influence and money can get a medical seat, Bharathi has successfully completed her MBBS in flying colours and is now doing her internship, thus making her parents proud.

With a lot of financial struggle, Nagaraj put all his efforts to provide education to his daughter to achieve her goal. Now, Bharathi is preparing for entrance exam for MD (Doctor of Medicine) and is aiming to pursue the MD course by herself without burdening her father, who has already struggled hard for providing education to her.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Nagaraj expressed his gratitude to Mysuru District Newspaper Distributors Association, former MLA Vasu and newspaper readers for helping his daughter with financial aid, study materials, stationeries and other small contributions when she got the MBBS Government seat.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

On my morning walk the other day, I came across a young man reading out aloud the newspaper to an older person. This evoked in me some vivid memories of the daily duty some of us had long ago. This was to read out aloud the newspaper each morning to our grandfather who had lost his sight but not his sharp faculty for uncovering the truth. You see, my grandfather had been a sub-Judge in the District Court of Chikkaballapura and was known for his acuteness in probing the evidence presented to him! So, that daily newspaper reading was not just a mechanical chore. We had to understand what we were reading and be alert to the searching questions he would ask...But I wonder now if this early initiation is the reason for my near-addiction to reading the newspaper everyday. Our branch of the family lived in Kolkata and each morning saw my younger brother and myself hanging around, looking unconcerned, as we kept our ears out for the thud of the morning paper landing on our verandah. Then, we would both race for it, and for the armchair that was the perfect reading seat. What was that urge to 'know' the news, I wonder. There was a thrill in seeing the headline, and if it was dramatic enough, no book could compete. I think it was also because each day brought something fresh and new to read and think about. Recently, my daughter suggested I take an early morning walk in addition to my evening hike. My first reaction was dismay that I would have to forgo my cuppa and the newspaper! It felt like a false start to the day to go out in ignorance of what might have taken place. The festivals are a welcome break for the newspaper staff, but not for me. I fret and fume on the days when there is no newspaper. —Usha Mukunda in Deccan Herald

She marries cat to get round pet-haters

London: A woman has married her cat to stop heartless landlords forcing her to give her up. Deborah Hodge, 49, has already rehomed three animals over the years by landlords who don't want pets in their properties. But she is now terrified of being made to part with her precious cat after losing her job as a life coach last month. The mum-of-two got the idea that if they were married, it would show any future landlord just how important it is for them to stay together.

Decked out in a tuxedo, Deborah tied the knot with India at a civil ceremony presided over by her legally ordained friend. The five-year-old cat was draped in gold lamé for the big day and meowed her vows in front of Deborah's family and friends in the south-east London park.

Teacher with 50,000 pounds worth tattoos

England: A man who has been dubbed the 'world's most terrifying teacher' because of his huge number of tattoos has revealed that he's spent 52,000 pounds inking his body and has been removed from teaching because of it.

Sylvain Helaine has worked as a teacher in his native France and in London over a period spanning more than a decade, but claims he was told he wouldn't be allowed to teach kindergarten age children any more after one had a nightmare about him.

As one can see, Helaine - who also works as a model - is covered head to toe in ink and has even had his eyeballs blackened.The teacher, who boasts 91,000 followers, wants to help kids in his professional life, although he was told he couldn't do that by French school officials a few years ago.

Shared responsibility from citizens can only save heritage buildings

Sir,

Have you ever stood by a heritage structure and admired its aesthetic beauty ? Looked out for its significance ? or Gauged the health and condition of the structure ?

A very few of you might affirm to all these questions, while many others pass by innumerable heritage structures everyday without even batting an eyelid, thanks to our very busy and programmed lives.

But is it right to ignore our heritage structures, especially those deteriorating due to various factors like external, man-made, biological, natural causes, wars etc.? No, it isn't.

Heritage structures have from time immemorial stood as a testament to the rich legacy and culture of our land. Therefore, preservation and conservation of these structures becomes our sole responsibility. It's very crucial to understand that all old structures need to be conserved, the factor that defines why an old structure must be preserved is called its significance. They may possess a historic, artistic/aesthetic, social/spiritual or scientific/research-based significance; understanding this significance is of utmost importance. After understanding the significance and the extent of damage that the structure has undergone, authorities decide on the degree of intervention with the structure, whether it should be indirect conservation, preservation, reproduction, adaptive reuse, reconstruction or restoration.

But as the common crowd would question: Why would one want to save an old structure and spend money on repairing them, when it can be demolished and be replaced by a multi-storey structure with the latest technology? Which is one of the latest topics of debate with a lot of ongoing cases, example regarding the fate of the century-old markets, believed to be two of the earliest planned structures of the country, the Devaraja Market and the Lansdowne building built by the Wadiyars of Mysore, which now lie in a state of danger.

Bringing down a heritage structure doesn't just reduce the beauty of the landscape it also slices off a great chunk of history and sentiments associated with it. In view of the Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) too, it is always advisable to renovate/restore/reuse a structure when feasible rather than bringing it to the ground and replacing it with a brand new structure.

Although there are enough bodies to govern the preservation of heritage structures, not much is being done to save the structures that are on the verge of getting destroyed. This being a vast subject with a lot of intricacies it needs a greater sense of shared responsibility from the citizens to save their own culture through these heritage structures.

Voluntary groups joining hands to raise funds and to create awareness about these structures have become the need of the hour. Stricter policies and regulations must be implemented with respect to heritage structures.

With every heritage structure that is brought down, a part of our legacy is erased. Erased forever...

In a communication to Chief Secretary P. Ravi Kumar, Rajesh Kotecha, Secretary, Ministry of AYUSH, New Delhi, has mentioned about his visit to Mysuru along with Kavita Garg, Joint Secretary, Ministry of AYUSH.

The visit comes in the wake of Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha and Uttara Kannada MP Ananth Kumar Hegde urging PM Modi to attend the IDY-2022 main event in Mysuru on June 21.

"A need was felt to find the feasibility to hold the main event of IDY in Mysuru," he said, requesting the Chief Secretary to depute senior officers from State Government for a meeting in Mysuru on Apr. 29 at 12 pm. The letter to Chief Secretary was released to media yesterday.

The meeting will focus on the venue for the main mass yoga demonstration, availability of infrastructure, transportation facilities, accommodation, weather, event management, security etc.

AYUSH Ministry Secretary has requested the presence of officers from the District Administration along with Police officials as the discussion will be centred around security of venue.

The main event is a mass yoga demonstration led by the Prime Minister every year from 7 am to 8 am," Rajesh Kotecha stated in his letter.

IDY-2022 will be the eighth such celebration on June 21 and plans are afoot to make it a massive physical event as it is being held after two years of holding it virtually due to COVID-19. A series of meetings involving Ministers from various Departments has decided to celebrate this year's IDY with added enthusiasm and vigour.

1,10,000 participants

In his request letter to the PM, Pratap Simha has stated that Mysuru, the birthplace of Ashtanga Yoga, is the perfect location to learn and practise this fairly dynamic form of yoga. Mysuru has a rich history of contributing to the preservation, development and promotion of yoga practices through the teachings of great personalities like Pattabhi Jois and others. Several renowned yogic scholars and gurus have established bases here and nurtured the art to reach global levels, he stated.

It may be recalled, Mysuru created a world record in 2017 through the participation of over 55,506 people. This year, there are plans to involve 1,10,000.

RHEUMATOLOGICAL DISEASES AWARENESS MONTH – APRIL

What are Rheumatological diseases?

Rheumatological diseases are perceived to be diseases of the joints alone; but these are systemic diseases which can involve any organ system or multiple organ systems caused due to an autoimmune phenomenon. Musculoskeletal diseases due to trauma or injury do not fall into this category. There are over 200 distinct Rheumatological diseases and each of them have varied presentations which left untreated or inadequately treated has long term implications with respect to the patients health and social indices in a society.

What is Rheumatology?

It is a branch of Medicine, which deals with Rheumatological diseases. It is a Superspeciality, just like cardiology, Nephrology, Neurology, Pulmonology, Oncology etc., These diseases are preferably treated by a Rheumatologist or a physician trained in Rheumatology. Early identification of Rheumatological diseases with early diagnostic investigations, management with disease modifying drugs, and long-term planning of treatment essential for comprehensive management and to improve patient outcomes.

What are the common Rheumatological disorders?

Rheumatoid arthritis, Psoriatic arthritis, Ankylosing spondylitis, Systemic Lupus Erythematosus (SLE), Scleroderma, Sjogrens syndrome, Gout, Viral arthritis, Inflammatory myositis, systemic vasculitis, Fibromyalgia, Osteoarthritis, Osteoporosis etc.,

Why is it important to meet a Rheumatologist early in the course of Rheumatological disease?

All Rheumatological diseases are systemic diseases with a high inflammatory burden, which in the long run is harmful for various vital organs involved. No organ is spared in autoimmune diseases and hence prompt control of the same is needed. Early intervention can prevent deformities that could happen with Rheumatoid Arthritis/Psoriatic arthritis. Medical treatment and lifestyle modifications with respect to diet, physical activity etc., along with repeated assessment to identify the progression of the disease improve clinical outcomes and brings down the economic burden for the care givers. It is also important to manage coexisting diseases in interaction with other specialists for a holistic approach.

What is the treatment of Rheumatological diseases?

Rheumatological diseases are treated with disease modifying drugs (Called DMARDs), small molecules, biologics and immunosuppressants are used in treating these diseases. Steroids are also used depending on the seriousness of the disease either life or organ threatening disease. Balancing the usage of these drugs in appropriate doses with proper monitoring often have good clinical outcomes minimizing the side effects of treatment. Drug dosage can sometimes be gradually tapered over a period of time depending on the clinical condition. Physiotherapy, Calcium and vitamin supplements also play a vital role in management of these diseases. From today's point of view, these diseases can be well controlled with these drugs provided there is complete compliance of the patient.

Do we have Rheumatologists in all districts of India?

Unfortunately, NO!! Upto 2-3% of population have some form of Rheumatological diseases. India produces around 60 Rheumatologists per year, which is insufficient. Currently, there are three Rheumatologists in Mysore. Dr. Subramanian.R, Dr. Shiva Prasad.B.N and Dr. Sangeetha .K.N. They are serving patients in Mysore and neighboring districts as well. There is a need to introduce more training centers in medical colleges and private institutions.

Are Rheumatological diseases covered in various Government schemes and Insurance?

Unfortunately, NO!! Rheumatological diseases are chronic diseases which require long medical treatment and follow up. At present, support from insurance or government for chronic medical diseases is minimal and hence it is important to increase awareness about these problems.

Indian Rheumatology Association is working hard to increase awareness among general population. Hence, APRIL has considered as the month to increase the awareness about Rheumatological diseases. April is now considered as National Rheumatological Diseases awareness month.

MUDA issues showcause notice to Gokulam Trust over possession of land

By S.T. Ravikumar

Mysuru, Apr. 28- In yet another action for reclaiming its landed properties which are either encroached upon or in illegal possession of individuals, Trusts or Organisations, the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) has issued a showcause notice to Gokulam Kalyana Mantapa Trust, having office on 3rd Main Road, Yadavagiri, in connection with possession of 10 acres and 26 guntas of land along KRS Road, coming under Maragowdanahalli Survey Nos. 7,8 and 9 in Kasaba Hobli of Mysuru taluk.

- Trust was sanctioned 10.26 acres of land in 1984 for construction of Kalyana Mantapa and religious activities
- Government had plans for Park and Horticulture farm
- Landed property valued at more than Rs.200 crore

Details

Gokulam Kalyana Mantapa Trust, on Jan. 23,1984 had applied to the then CITB (City Improvement Trust Board) seeking allotment of the said land that is located behind ESI Hospital on KRS Road, for construction of a Kalyana Mantapa, a Guest House and organising cultural programmes. Following the application, the then CITB on Feb. 2,1984 decided to sanction 10.26 acre land in Maragowdanahalli Survey Numbers 7,8 and 9 to the Trust, with the condition that the structure should come up in two years.

However, the then CITB Chairman issued a written note to the Trust President on Apr. 4,1984, saying that the said 10.26 acre land has been sold to the Trust for Rs. 2,26,644. But this note was against the decision taken by the CITB at its meeting held on Feb. 4,1984, during which no mention was made concerning the sale of the said land. Later, the Trust, based on the CITB Chairman's note, made the ordered payment (Rs. 2,26,644) for the land to the CITB and sought the Board to hand over the land to the Trust. Thereafter, the CITB issued an unregistered agreement to the Trust on July 9,1984, mentioning that the land in question should be used only for Kalyana Mantapa, educational, religious and such other purposes. The agreement was jointly signed by the then CITB Chairman B.K. Puttaiah and the then Gokulam Kalyana Mantapa Trust President.

MGP files petition

Questioning the agreement, the Mysore Grahakara Parishat (MGP) filed a petition in the High Court (Petition No. 25414/2005). The HC, which heard the petition on Feb.16, 2006, directed MUDA (formerly CITB) Commissioner to take appropriate action as per law concerning the said land.

Subsequent to the Court order, the MUDA Commissioner issued a showcause notice to the Trust on Feb. 7, 2007, questioning why the land should not be taken back by MUDA for violation of the conditions laid down during the sanction of land.

Replying in writing to the Notice, the Trust President on May 9, 2007 claimed that the land is under the complete ownership of the Trust and MUDA had no rights to question the Trust over land usage. The Trust also claimed that the MUDA's notice had no legal sanction.

Rampant violation

Later, MUDA sought a legal opinion from its Legal consultant. As per the legal opinion, the note issued by the then CITB Chairman was in violation of the CITB resolution passed at its meeting on Feb. 4, 1984 and also there was rampant violation of the purpose for which the land was sanctioned and as such, the MUDA has the right to reclaim the land after issuing a notice to the Trust.

But since then, nothing moved beyond seeking legal opinion, according to the records.

But on Mar. 28, 2007, the Government wrote a letter to the then MUDA Commissioner directing to take action on the plea made by MGP. The Government then also questioned MUDA on why no action has been taken so far in this regard.

As per the records, the Secretary of the Housing and Urban Development Department in a letter written on Aug. 4,1984, had clearly mentioned that the said land in Maragowdanahalli Survey Nos.7,8 and 9 should be reserved only for the purpose of park and horticulture activities and that the land should not be allotted to any small organisations.

The then CITB Chairman on Feb. 6,1989, wrote a letter to the Secretary of the Housing and Urban Development Department saying the land (10.26 acres) was valued at Rs. 3,84,400 at the rate of Rs.36,000 per acre, following which the then Land Acquisition Officer, after making a calculation, fixed the price at Rs. 2,26,644, which the Trust paid to the CITB based on the written note issued by the CITB Chairman. Thereafter, the said landed property was handed over to the Trust by the Engineering Section of the CITB, when in fact only the Land Acquisition Section had the powers to hand over such a bulk land measuring a large area. This was in clear violation of the norms as the land was also sanctioned without the permission of the Government.

Not legally registered

As such, the sanction of the land could be cancelled citing violation of rules and norms and also for the reason that the said land comes under industrial area. Besides, the land in question has not been legally registered with the concerned authority. It has been found that the land was not allotted according to the terms of allotment of CA sites that came into force following the introduction of Karnataka Urban Development Authorities Act,1987.

Taking into account all the above mentioned factors, the MUDA has come to the conclusion that the Gokulam Kalyana Mantapa Trust is in illegal possession of the said land (10.26 acres).

Now the MUDA has issued another showcause notice to Gokulam Kalyana Mantapa Trust, based on the Feb.16, 2006 High Court ruling, asking it to reply in writing within the stipulated time. The notice also said that any failure to reply, will be taken as granted that the Trust has nothing to reply and that the MUDA will go ahead on initiating legal action.

MUDA Commissioner defends notice

Defending the issuance of notice to Gokulam Kalyana Mantapa Trust, MUDA Commissioner Dr. D.B. Natesh said that the notice has been issued for violation of purpose of the land for which it was sanctioned.

Listing out the violations, he said that the Trust has claimed that the land was 'purchased' by it, when actually the land was only sanctioned to it. Also, the Trust had paid money less than the value, violation of purpose, failure to register legally and violation of Government norms in allotment of bulk land, among others. As these violations have been discovered after going through the records, the Trust has been issued showcause notice, he noted.

Trust seeks more time to reply

Meanwhile, the current President of Gokulam Kalyana Mantapa Trust P. Vishwanath, who is also the city's first Mayor, has contended that the Trust had not violated any land allotment norms and the conditions laid out at the time of sanction.

Vishwanath told Star of Mysore that the Trust has sought more time for replying to all the issues raised by MUDA concerning the 10.26 acres of land behind ESI hospital.

Asserting that the Trust had not violated any norms of bulk land allotment, he maintained that the land is being used only for the purpose it was sought.

Arguing that the MUDA Commissioner has issued the notice because the Trust had applied for start of an Educational Institution and construction of buildings, he wondered why the MUDA did not take action all these 38 years if there was indeed any violation of norms or conditions.

Pointing out that the 3-day duration given by MUDA to reply to its 4-page showcause notice dated Apr. 13, 2022 is too little a time, Vishwanath said that the Trust has sought more time to file reply along with all supporting documents and necessary clarifications.

'Hide and Seek' game proves fatal

Two girls hiding in unused freezer box die of suffocation in Nanjangud

Nanjangud, Apr. 28 (KS)- Two girls, who were hiding inside an empty ice cream freezer box while playing 'hide and seek' game, were suffocated to death after the lid of the freezer box got locked from outside. The incident took place at Masage village in the taluk yesterday.

The deceased girls are Bhagya (12), daughter of Nagaraja Nayaka and Chikkadevamma couple and Kavya (7), daughter of Raja Nayaka and Gowramma couple, both residents of Masage village.

One Hanumantha Nayaka of Tagadur village, who was operating an ice cream parlour in front of Nagaraja Nayaka's house in Masage village, had stopped the business since last six months and had kept the empty freezer box in front of Nagaraja Nayaka's house.

Yesterday about 10 am, a group of girls including Bhagya and Kavya was playing 'hide and seek' game and the two girls reportedly got into the freezer box to hide from others and closed the lid during which the lid got locked from outside.

Unable to open the air tight freezer box from inside, the two girls were suffocated to death inside the box. But the other girls on noticing Bhagya and Kavya missing, assumed that they had returned home and they too went back to their houses, it is learnt.

As Bhagya and Kavya did not return home even in the afternoon, their parents went in search of them but in vain. The parents later enquired with other girls during which the girls told them that they were playing 'hide and seek' game and did not know where Bhagya and Kavya went.

After searching for the two girls at various places, the parents of the two girls opened the freezer box on suspicion and saw the girls lying lifeless inside it. They immediately lifted the girls from the box but the two girls had died by then.

The inconsolable parents of the two girls performed the last rites at the village.

Meanwhile, Nanjangud Rural Circle Inspector Shivananja Shetty, speaking to SOM, said that the Police came to know about the incident through messages in social media and added that even the parents had performed the last rites of the two girls.

The Inspector further stated that no one has lodged a complaint and no case has been registered in this regard.

Asst. Professors' recruitment exam question paper leak case

Karnatak University Registrar arrested

Mysuru, Apr. 28 (RK&DM)- The question paper leak scam concerning the recruitment exam for appointment of Assistant Professors in Degree Colleges seems to have run deeper, with the arrest of Dharwad's Karnatak University Registrar (Evaluation) Prof. H. Nagaraj.

Prof. Nagaraj, who is also a senior faculty of Geography Department of the University, was arrested by Bengaluru's Malleswaram Police on Wednesday. His arrest comes just a couple of days after a guest faculty of the University of Mysore R. Sowmya, a Post-Doctoral Fellow and a resident of Mysuru, was arrested by the Police. Prof. Nagaraj is being questioned by the Police in connection with the question paper leak of Geography exam.

The Karnataka Examinations Authority (KEA), which conducted the exam, had entrusted the responsibility of setting the question paper for Geography Exam to Prof. Nagaraj. Later, Prof. Nagaraj had asked R. Sowmya, who was his understudy, to prepare a list of questions, which she did. As Sowmya thus got to know of the questions, she shared them with some of her friends via WhatsApp on her cell phone, when the question paper leak came to light.

In the meantime, it is learnt that Malleswaram Police, who are investigating the question paper leak case, have taken a male faculty member of the Geography Department of Mysuru-based KSOU into custody for questioning. The faculty member has been held on charges of sharing the questions with two candidates known to him. Police also searched his residence for evidence, it is learnt.

Meanwhile, University of Mysore Registrar Prof. R. Shivappa said that the University has recommended the suspension of R. Sowmya, who was serving as a Guest faculty in the Geography Department of the University.

Pointing out that legal experts were consulted on the action to be taken against R. Sowmya, Prof. Shivappa said that a report has been sent to the Chancellor recommending the suspension of Sowmya, as she has been arrested by the Police in connection with the question paper leak case.

Maintaining that the University will take immediate action whenever any such serious cases come to notice, he said that he is awaiting a direction from the Chancellor's office on suspension of Sowmya.

Devaraja Market and Lansdowne buildings:

'To be or not to be' dilemma faced by the authorities

Devaraja Market

Lansdowne building

Mysore Palace

Jayalakshmi Vilas Mansion

The Mysuru District Heritage Committee presided over by its Chairman Dr. Bagadi Gautham, who is also the Deputy Commissioner (DC) of Mysuru, took a very special and important decision in its meeting held on 14th of this month. The decision was to demolish over a hundred-year-old Devaraja Market building and the Lansdowne building, considered heritage buildings but in a highly dilapidated and collapsible condition.

It was decided that after demolition these two buildings would be constructed anew, keeping its architectural features. Many of those who have been following these two 'sick' buildings that were in 'death beds' for over a decade, expressed their countenance to this most realistic and even futuristic decision. After all, the authorities need not worry about these reconstructed buildings for another 100 years if the tenants therein co-operated in maintaining these buildings. Let it be.

Surprisingly, when this news came out in the newspapers, for some vested interest groups it was as if the hell had broken loose and come down. They wanted these buildings to be repaired and restored as heritage buildings and conserved as such.

While many have expressed their opinions for and against this decision, one Nagendra of Vidyaranyapuram has made a very pertinent point in response to those who wanted restoration of these two buildings; not demolition and reconstruction.

According to him, he has no objection for preserving these two buildings as heritage buildings but on one condition — these two buildings should be preserved after conservation by heritage experts only as monuments for tourists to see but should not be given back to the shop-keepers and tenants for commercial purpose.

Imagine what would happen if the building collapses and disaster takes place like it happened earlier during monsoon taking away four lives. In such an eventuality, there is a risk not only for the shop-keepers but also to the customers who go there. They may lose their lives or break their bones.

The fact that a part of the Devaraja Market building had collapsed after some conservation work was done, as per the advise of the consultants on heritage building conservation, is proof that there is no guarantee the same tragedy will not happen if the building is repaired and restored.

After all, some Civil Engineers say the building is beyond repair and restoration considering the materials used those days for constructing these buildings.

By the way, after these buildings are renovated or repaired and allowed to remain as monuments for the tourists, would the tourists (who have seen the world) find anything extraordinary aesthetically to wonder and admire? Then, will it not amount to our City Corporation denying its tax-payers the most important infrastructural facility in the heart of the city? Time to ponder over this question also.

Already, Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar of the Mysore Royal family has joined those who were protesting against the decision of the Mysuru District Heritage Committee. Majority of those who were in the protest meeting were those who are the owners and tenants of the shops therein. They had even closed the market for half-a-day from morning till 2 pm in the afternoon.

Added to this, the Mysore Royal family has in great flourish said that if the Government permits, they would repair these two buildings preserving their heritage character.

In that protest meeting it was also said, if it was the way the Mysuru District Heritage Committee took the decision regarding the heritage buildings, then one day in the future, even the Mysore Palace might be demolished.

Public memory could be short as they say. But, let it not be forgotten that there is some truth in the saying 'Time and tide wait for no man.' As I remember, some years back, an IAS Officer, I think, of the Archaeological Department had declared that the public Durbar Hall of the Palace where music programmes used to be held with hundreds of people seated on either side of the main stage, that the Durbar Hall cannot take the weight of so many people as its flooring is structurally weak due to age. Much discussions were held about this IAS Officer's opinion. However, finally, the authorities accepted the opinion of the IAS Officer and stopped holding the music concerts from this venue. What does it suggest?

The same fate is facing the Jayalakshmi Vilas Mansion in Manasagangothri. This building was constructed in 1910. Due to reasons of non-maintenance, the Mansion became dilapidated and was in the danger of collapse. When this condition of the heritage building was brought to the notice of Sudha Murty, the then Chairperson of Infosys Foundation, she pumped in a few crores for its restoration in the year 2004-05. Sadly, the building has returned to its pre-restoration condition now and the Government is likely to spend some more crores to restore this building as it wants to shift the Classical Kannada Language Centre to this Mansion. Wonder how long this patch-work business will last, GOK.

Be that as it may, talking about Devaraja Market and Lansdowne buildings, the authorities should give up the mindset of the Prince of Denmark in Shakespeare's play 'Hamlet' — "To be, or not to be, that is the question."

Plea for GST exemption on newsprint

Ex-CM Siddu writes to PM Modi

Narendra Modi

Siddharamaiah

Bengaluru, Apr. 28- Senior Congress leader and Leader of Opposition in Karnataka Assembly Siddharamaiah has requested the Centre to exempt printing paper of newspapers from the purview of Goods and Services Taxes (GST), saying many regulatory policies have affected their operations and finances.

In a letter addressed to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, former CM Siddharamaiah said, "I urge you to remove GST on printing paper, create differentiation between Registrar of the Newspapers of India (RNI) registered and unregistered agencies at the time of purchasing printing papers, and provide incentive to printing paper manufacturing units that make quality paper from cellulose fibres."

According to Siddharamaiah, the tax on printing paper for RNI registered agencies before GST implementation was at three percent, and it was increased to five percent under GST system.

This is an increase of 68 percent in taxes on printing paper. The GST for unregistered agencies is at 12 percent. As there is no mechanism to differentiate between registered and unregistered agencies at purchasing point, the unregistered agencies are purchasing printing paper at five percent instead of 12 percent, creating shortage of papers for registered agencies. This shortage has also resulted in increase in the cost of printing papers as well. The Government has to consider reducing the GST rates for registered agencies and create a differentiating mechanism to identify registered and unregistered agencies, the former CM said in the letter, a copy of which was shared with the media.

Supply chain disruptions due to pandemic, labour shortage, raw material cost, shortage of shipping containers and fuel price hike have contributed to drastic increase in printing prices, he noted. The cost of one ton of imported printing paper was $300 or Rs. 23,000 before the pandemic, and it has reached about Rs. 55,000 - Rs. 60,000 now. Nearly 56 percent of paper was imported and 44 percent was manufactured domestically, Siddharamaiah said.

Referring to the ongoing Ukraine-Russia conflict, he said since most of the imports are from Russia and Europe, the disruption has increased drastically due to the war. Siddharamaiah also pointed out that the cost of printing paper having doubled in last two years and increase in GST have caused a huge burden on print media houses to sustainably continue the printing of newspapers.

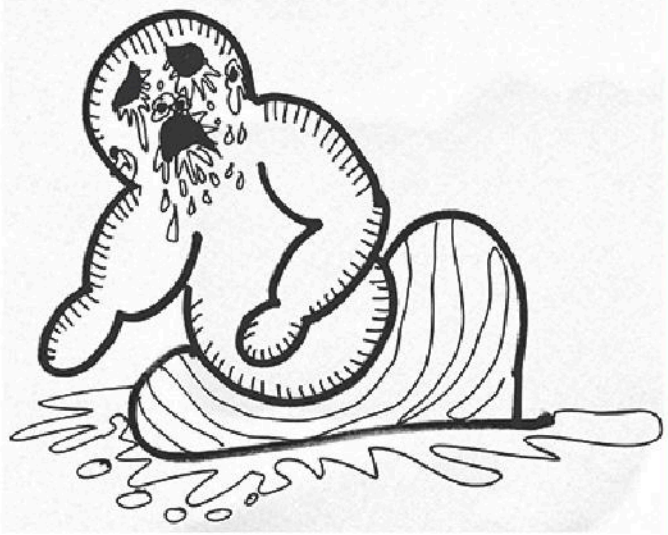
DECODING MYTHOLOGY

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Seven Holes of Hundun



Hundun gave food to two beings, one who came from the north and the other who came from the south. Grateful, the two decided to help Hundun. Hundun had no eyes, nose, ears or mouth. He did not have the seven holes to appreciate the world around. So the two decided to bore seven holes into him.

But when they did this, Hundun died. Instead of enjoying Hundun's kindness and appreciating Hundun for who he was, the two were burdened by their own notions of hospitality and generosity. They gave Hundun what they felt Hundun needed even though Hundun did not ask for it. Thus they ended up killing him by unnecessary interference.

This story comes to us from China's Taoist tradition that values nature and feels humans need to avoid interfering with nature. Nature is perfect and we need to align with its perfection. A similar sentiment is found in the following story.

The woodcarver made the perfect table. The king was so impressed that he believed the woodcarver had secured the help of spirits. But the woodcarver said he was guided by the Tao. He fasted until he no longer thought about success or failure, criticism or praise, about his head, his heart or his stomach. Thus cleansed, he ventured to the forest, and the tree appeared before him, and within the tree he saw the table which he released by carving out the tree as the table asked him to. It was not the spirits, but the flow of nature, that manifested the table.

Similar stories are told of butcher and archers, who align with natural forces, chose to be pliant rather than firm. This is the stuff of Chinese mysticism.

But the following story rejects the idea of aligning with nature's flow. It values obedience and discipline and comes from the Chinese classic, the Art of War. The military General claimed he could turn anyone into a soldier. So the king asked him to turn his concubines into an army. The General accepted the challenge and asked the women to stand in a straight line. Those who disobeyed would pay with their life. The women giggled at his demand, for they were the king's favourites.

The General repeated his instruction: stand in a straight line, or pay with your life for disobedience. The women once again refused to do as he asked. So the General picked up the king's sword and beheaded the king's favourite concubine, and repeated his instruction. This time the women stood in a straight line, ready to do what he told them to do.

Chinese stories were designed to help people cope with a tough world. There is one story of the warrior who spent years studying how to slay a dragon only to realise later no one on earth had actually ever seen a dragon though everyone spoke about it.

In another story, a family made a special ointment that kept people from freezing in water. A passing merchant realised its value and sold the formula to a king, and became rich. The family that manufactured it remained clueless about its potential. While most cultures give a lot of value to life in the hereafter, Chinese culture is far more pragmatic and focuses on the present. And that's what makes Chinese stories unique.

Transfers in Health Department as per guidelines: Health Minister

Bengaluru, Apr. 28- Health Minister Dr. K. Sudhakar has said that the transfer of officials in the Health Department will be done as per the guidelines issued by the Government and will not be done according to the whims and fancies of any individual.

The Minister was speaking at a meeting of Health Department's senior officials and District Health Officers (DHOs). Only 15 percent of the staff can be transferred as per the new guidelines and no person shall continue in the same place for more than 10 years and if any, will be transferred, he announced.

Observing that some officials and staff are not moving out of Bengaluru, Dr. Sudhakar said that to prevent this, requests for mutual transfers will not be considered. It is mandatory that all officials should visit and inspect the hospitals and offices which come under their jurisdiction on every Wednesday. "We are also making it compulsory for all officials to maintain a record of their duties discharged on a daily basis," he disclosed.

Dr. Sudhakar said that if the public follows the COVID-19 rules imposed by the Government, it will be possible to avert the fourth wave of COVID-19. Pointing out that there were not much deaths during the third wave of the dreaded virus because of the widespread vaccinations done across the country, he advised the public to strictly follow the guidelines issued by the Government so that the fourth wave could be effectively tackled.

"According to experts, the new mutation is not that strong, but we still need to be careful and the Government has made all preparations to handle any situation," the Minister said.

WORD OF THE DAY

Minion

Pronunciation: MIN-yun.
Meaning: A minion is someone who is not powerful or important and who obeys the orders of a powerful leader or boss.
Origin: Minion comes from Middle French and is related to filet mignon. The two terms are connected by mignon, meaning "darling." The earliest uses of minion refer to someone who is a particular favorite of a sovereign or other important personage. Over time, however, the word developed a more derogatory sense referring to a person who is servile and unimportant.
Example: "Witchy Witch, the Wicked Witch of Westchester ..., along with her minion, Goble Ghoul ..., is intent on taking over the world and destroying Halloween forever." — Stefani Dias

THE ODD WORD

Macrocephalous

Having a large head.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Method to my madness

Meaning: This funny phrase 'Method to my madness' means that there is often a reason behind someone's mysterious behaviour.
Origin: This phrase is based on a line from Shakespeare 's Hamlet, written in the year 1602.
Example: "At the start of his presentation, it seemed that he's out of his mind, but when he finished, we saw that there's method in his madness."

QUOTE BOX

There is always some madness in love. But there is also always some reason in madness. — Friedrich Nietzsche
